

We are proud to present news of interest for Montana families of children with disabilities and special health care needs, and for the professionals and educators who serve them; however, it does not constitute an endorsement.

Impacts of Childhood Disability on Families , June 10-11, Billings

In a long-awaited conference opportunity, parents and caregivers are invited to join national presenter and author, psychologist Ken Moses, PhD, for a two-day conference, June 10-11, exploring childhood disability and its impact on families and caregivers.

Dr. Moses has spent his career studying the "relationship between human development and grieving" and for more than twenty years he has carried a private practice and offered a range of services from counseling and psychotherapy to consultation, supervision, education and training services.

The conference "Impacts of Childhood Disability: Understanding the Parents' Journey From Grief to Growth" is sponsored by St. Vincent's Healthcare (in cooperation with Billings Public Schools, STEP, and ECI). CEUs will be offered and, a limited number of registration scholarships (for parents of special needs children) will be available. For more information, see the conference listing in this issue of PLUK eNews.

Kids at Heart Gala, May 13

The event will be held again at Sheraton Hotel in Billings and is set for Friday May 13th. The 2005 Kids at Heart Gala features the band The Midlife Chryslers (Billings' area doctors who participate in 4 or 5 performances a year for local nonprofits). The Committee is excited about this notable band's involvement and everyone is looking forward to the Gala. In addition to the Chrysler's performance, the event will include heavy hors d'oeuvres, a silent auction, a live auction (featuring auctioneer Bill Holt), and much more. For information on sponsorships or tickets, call PLUK's office at 406 255-0540 or 800 222-7585. Visit the PLUK web site to see a list

Final Legislative Update (14) from C. Briggs

1. Appropriations. The 59th Regular Session of the Montana Legislature is now history. About 10:15 a.m. today, the House and Senate adjourned sine die (Latin, "dismissed indefinitely"), which means the end – as distinct from a recess – or postponement until a later time. Within the first hour of convening, the Republican Leader, Roy Brown (R-Kimberley), stated he would end the impasse and be the lone Republican House member to join the 50 Democrats and approve HB-2, the "General Appropriations Act of 2003", with the joint conference committee report as approved by the Senate late last week. The House approved the conference report, and voting stood 51-49. The joint conference committee never reconvened to entertain some $60 million additional fund cuts in the bill, as the Republican leadership desired.

Both houses adjourned the regular 2005 Legislative Session with a clear understanding they will convene a special session late in the year to resolve the education funding mandate imposed by the Montana Supreme Court. Among the final bills considered earlier in the week, HB-5 was finally approved, which was the long-range funding bill (concerning more than one biennium or two-year cycle). As a result of these two bills being approved the legislature was able to complete its work and presumably keep state spending under the "cap" (or ceiling), which most citizens learned not many months ago was placed in statute by the 1981 Montana Legislature. As indicated in an earlier report, there were no additional cuts to HB-2 and, hence, appropriations increases that are important to disability advocates are approved for the biennium that begins July 1, 2005.

2. Other Legislation.

Here is the final status of the remaining bills we have been following:

- HB 197 (Jayne) – Will make it a felony for anyone convicted of abusing, neglecting or exploiting an older adult or person with a developmental disability, at the request of DPHHS. Senate amendments kept violence between consumers a misdemeanor. It has been transmitted to the Governor.
- HB 336 (Lange) – This bill providing service funding to developmentally disabled youth who have aged out of services for about a year still but died without action in the Senate.
- HB 438 (Buzzas) – The Braille literacy bill was approved and is being prepared for transmittal to the Governor.
- HB 513 (Raser) – This will extend state tax credits to citizens who donate to developmental disabilities programs. It has been transmitted to the Governor.
- HB 550 (Windy Boy) – Appropriates $100,000 over the biennium for the leadership forum for youth with disabilities. It is being prepared for transmittal to the Governor.
- HB 687 (Mendenhall) – This is an important companion to the I-149 tobacco tax initiative, as it makes provision to track tobacco sales, and compliments the actions of the sub-committee that funded six auditors for tax collection. It is being prepared for transmittal to the Governor.
- HB738 (Kaufmann) – Will establish an advisory commission to study all provider rates and services provided by DPHHS. The bill has been transmitted to the Governor. The work of this advisory commission will be important to all providers of services to people with disabilities.
- SB 41 (Keenan) – Establishing “funding principles” for Medicaid, it’s one of several the Senator offered as part of a larger Medicaid redesign. It has been transmitted to the Governor
- SB 93 (Cobb) – Requires DPHHS to report monthly to the Legislative Finance Committee updating Medicaid cost estimates. It has been transmitted to the Governor
- SB 110 (Cobb) – A significant piece of the Medicaid redesign legislation. The bill has been sent to the Governor.
- SB 127 (Keenan) – Another Medicaid redesign bills, this one focuses on restructuring home and community-based waiver services. It has been sent to the Governor.
- SB 146 (McGee) – Based on a lawsuit, this bill intends to redesign – and fund – Montana’s public defender system, which could be a good thing for people with disabilities on limited incomes. This important bill (that requires a disabilities advocate to be appointed to the State Public Defender Commission) has been transmitted to the Governor.
- SB 150 (Keenan) – What has been termed the “waiver of deeming bill” would require cost-sharing for community-based Medicaid services. The bill died in House committee.
- SB 415 (Tester) – A significant bill drawing lots of attention designed to mandate utilities access alternative energy, such as wind. While seen as progressive energy policy, a number of non-profit organizations have raised questions whether it could potentially raise costs to consumers. A conference committee was appointed April 20th; apparently, no report was recorded and approved by both houses, presumably killing the bill.
- SB 428 (Stapleton) – Establishes the 211 emergency human services system statewide. The House concurred in Governor’s amendments and was returned to the Senate, but Senate did not concur. Bill is presumably dead.
- SB 433 (Lind) – Creates a Medicaid pilot project for 50 developmentally disabled individuals, provides for retention of unspent funds in their annual cost plan for future services, as well as a portion to the DDP “risk pool”. The Governor signed it earlier this week.
- SB 500 (Cobb) – Revises state election laws to facilitate voting accessibility for people with disabilities. It has been transmitted to the Governor.
- SB 526 (Cobb) – Would exempt bed taxes (such as hospitals and nursing homes), as well as voter approved tax initiatives (such as I-149) from consideration of the spending cap. The bill was scheduled for hearing in House Appropriations on Tuesday but no action was taken. Bill is, therefore, dead.

Except for those very few bills whose fate is unclear, the actions of the 2005 Montana Legislature are indicated. However, as in the past, we will be assessing and evaluating the implications of this Legislature’s decisions for many months to come, certain to discover implications of its actions that no one had previously understood or pondered but knowing the citizens of the state will have to live with, nonetheless. I think, on balance, disabilities services, programs and rights have been better served in this Session than in many of the ones in at least the last decade or more.

I extend my best regards and thanks to all of you for your diligence, passion and good efforts to improve the circumstances and the support systems for people with disabilities in Montana. I look forward to working with you again in the future.

Input Sought from healthcare providers and client advocates at PASSPORT Summits

As the PASSPORT to Health program enters its twelfth year of successfully managing the delivery of health care to Montana's Medicaid clients, the Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services (DPHHS) is planning summits to determine if the current operation of the PASSPORT to Health program is the most effective way to meet its objectives.

The Department stresses that attendees should look at the program in a truly comprehensive way; therefore, no idea is off the table for consideration. "Change to the PASSPORT program, whether slight or radical, may be in order," said Mary Angela Collins, Managed Care Bureau Chief. "These summits will provide a forum for providers to identify parts of the program they feel are ineffective or outdated. All we ask is that ideas fit within our goals for managed care."

PASSPORT to Health's objectives include fostering a medical home between providers and clients, which promotes appropriate care and reduces costs, as well as assuring adequate access to primary care.

One-day facilitated summits are planned for locations across the state: Helena on April 26, Havre on May 10, Billings on May 18, Kalispell on June 8, and Missoula on June 15. A cross-section of PASSPORT stakeholders are invited, including: PASSPORT providers, specialists, and other non-PCPs, representatives from billing companies, hospitals, FQHCs, RHCs, the tribal health community, and client advocates.

Implemented in 1993, the PASSPORT program has been successful in saving over $20,000,000 annually. These savings allow the program to provide services to people who may not have otherwise received them, and help maintain provider reimbursement rates.

In addition to meeting its financial objectives, the PASSPORT program has been well received by 80% of its PCPs and clients.

If you have ideas to offer, and would like to participate in one of the summits, contact PASSPORT Program Officer Niki Scoffield at (406) 444-4148 or niscoffield@mt.gov. For a copy of the agenda and more details, visit Montana Medicaid's website at www.mtmedicaid.org.

Flathead County Elections in 2006 Herald Major Changes to Montana Voting Methods

(From The Daily Inter Lake)

Posted: Sunday, Apr 17, 2005 - 11:08:23 am PDT

By WILLIAM L. SPENCE

The Daily Inter Lake

The Flathead County Election Department is preparing for several major changes over the next year, including the introduction of an electronic vote-counting device that should provide rapid election results.

Clerk and Recorder Paula Robinson said she expects the first shipment of M100 tabulators to arrive by midsummer. Beginning with the 2006 primary election, one of the devices will be located at each of the county's 43 polling stations.

The tabulators will scan paper ballots and alert voters to any discrepancies such as under-voted or over-voted races, she said.

Faulty ballots will be returned to voters, who can either revise them or instruct the machine to accept them as is. The ballots will then be stored in secure containers, without ever being handled by anyone other than the voters themselves.

In addition to the tabulator, several other changes are scheduled for this year and next, including:

- Computerized voter registration records -- Flathead County will be one of the first jurisdictions in Montana to deploy a statewide database for voter registration records.

That project is scheduled for this summer, Robinson said. Eventually, all county election departments will be linked to the database, which should make it easier to identify and remove voters who have moved to other counties, or to update records for people who move here.

"The database will have your signature on file, so we'll be able to compare signatures and verify [voter] petitions more easily," Eisenzimer said. "We'll also be able to link to our address database and automatically tell which precinct someone is in. We used to spend hours doing that." Prior to implementing the system, all registration cards will have to be bar-coded and scanned into the database. The work is scheduled to be completed by the 2006 primary.

- Same-day registration -- The Montana Legislature recently approved Senate Bill 302, which makes several changes in state voter registration statutes.

Most notably, the bill allows people to register to vote as late as the day of the election. Those who come in after the normal registration deadline will have to vote at the election office. SB 302 has been sent to Gov. Brian Schweitzer for his signature.

- Direct recording electronic equipment -- This is another device that could be deployed by the 2006 primary election. It allows people who are blind or vision-impaired, or who have some other disability that makes it difficult to mark a regular ballot, to vote in privacy.

The direct recording equipment and the M100 ballot scanner are both intended to meet the requirements of the federal Help America Vote Act.

Robinson said the Election Department also is considering changes to its absentee voting procedures and evaluating the number and location of polling places to make sure they're still adequate.

Absentee voting might be switched from the county courthouse to the county fairgrounds, she said, because the fairgrounds is better able to handle large numbers of people and its handicap accessibility is better.

The hours for absentee voting also could be shifted or expanded to make it easier for working people to vote.

"Last year, we had more than 8,000 absentee ballots," Robinson said. "I bet we have at least 10,000 next time. I'd like to encourage as much absentee voting as possible to alleviate the amount of paperwork we need to handle on election night."

National Council on Disability (NCD): Report Recommends Immediate Changes in Emergency Planning for People with Disabilities

WASHINGTON—The National Council on Disability (NCD) recently released a report (<http://www.ncd.gov/newsroom/publications/2005/publications.htm>) recommending immediate federal changes in emergency planning for people with disabilities.

According to NCD chairperson Lex Frieden, "Saving Lives: Including People with Disabilities in Emergency Planning, provides an overview of steps the Federal Government should take to build a solid and resilient infrastructure that will enable the government to include the diverse populations of people with disabilities in emergency preparedness, disaster relief, and homeland security programs. This infrastructure would incorporate access to technology, physical plants, programs, and communications. It also would include procurement and emergency programs and services."

The decisions the Federal Government makes, the priority it accords to civil rights, and the methods it adopts to ensure uniformity in the ways agencies handle their disability-related responsibilities are likely to be established in the early days of an emergency situation and be difficult to change if not set on the right course at the outset. By way of this report, NCD offers advice to assist the Federal Government in establishing policies and practices in these areas. This report provides examples of community efforts with respect to people with disabilities, but by no means does it provide a comprehensive treatment of the emergency preparedness, disaster relief, or homeland-security program efforts by state and local governments.

Key Recommendations:

- DHS should establish a Disability Access Advisory Group, in addition to the Interagency Coordinating Council on Emergency Preparedness, made up of qualified people with disabilities and others with disability-specific disaster experience who meet regularly with senior officials to discuss issues and challenges.
- The DHS Directorate of Emergency Preparedness and Response should integrate information on people with disabilities into general preparedness materials. It also should inform readers and information users on how to get access to more customized materials.
- The DHS Office of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties should regularly issue guidance for state and local emergency planning departments to reinforce their legal obligation to comply with ADA and Section 504 and 508 of the Rehabilitation Act in planning for, operating, and managing programs and services such as Citizen Corps, shelters, and other disaster services.
- The FCC should develop stronger enforcement mechanisms to ensure that video programming distributors, including broadcasters, cable operators, and satellite television services, comply with their obligation to make emergency information accessible to people with hearing and vision disabilities, that it acts immediately on violations, and that it is proactive on Section 255 hearing aid compatibility.

"Living In The Spectrum: Autism & Asperger's" Audio CD

(Courtesy PR WEB)

Royal Oak, MI (PRWEB) April 18, 2005 -- Being that April is "Autism Awareness" month, and with 1 in 166 children now being diagnosed with Autism or it's close relative, Asperger Syndrome, MindscapeProductions.com is donating a portion of the proceeds from the sale of their audio CD about Autism and Asperger Syndrome to various Autism organizations to help raise awareness, acceptance and understanding about the conditions.

The CD, entitled "Living In The Spectrum – Autism & Asperger's" is filled with valuable nuggets of insight from researchers, parents and individuals who have Autism or Asperger's. It features captivating music, poetry and intriguing interviews.

"Living In The Spectrum" is an ideal primer for parents, relatives, school districts, teachers, employers, doctors or anyone wanting to learn about Autism and Asperger's. The 55-minute CD delivers a captivating introduction to the subject matter. Co-producer, Lecia Macryn states, "What makes this presentation unique is that it not only educates people about Autism and Asperger's and presents the facts, but also puts a positive perspective on it. It offers hope, encouragement and highlights the gifts those in the autism spectrum bring us. Plus, because it's an audio CD, people who don't have much time on their hands can listen to it while driving, on the treadmill or working on their computer."

The Audio CD, "Living In The Spectrum – Autism & Asperger's," ISBN# 0976576007 is available for $16.95 online from Mindscape Productions at <http://www.MindscapeProductions.com> or from Amazon <http://www.amazon.com/>.

Watch "Riding the Bus with my sister" support a great cause on May 1st

On Sunday, May 1, Hallmark Hall of Fame will broadcast Riding the Bus with My Sister on CBS. Directed by Angelica Houston, and starring Andie MacDowell and Rosie O'Donnell, this is the movie adaptation of our friend Rachel Simon's wonderful book of the same name.

It is Rachel's wish that the premiere of this movie be used as an opportunity to support the Sibling Support Project! Here's what she told us:

As I wrote Riding the Bus with My Sister, I learned of The Sibling Support Project's important work. Whether it's helping local communities start Sibshops, connecting young and adult sibs with their peers on SibKids and SibNet, conducting wonderful workshops for parents and providers, or creating engaging books for sibs and families, The Sibling Support Project is the go-to group for all things sibling. I hope you'll join me and support the work of The Arc's Sibling Support Project!

--Rachel Simon, author, Riding the Bus with My Sister.

In honor of this special network presentation, we're celebrating the many important roles brothers and sisters play in the lives of their sibs who have disabilities. I hope you'll help us celebrate by making a secure online donation to the Sibling Support Project.

When making your online donation, be sure to check the "in support of" box and select either "Stay at Home Premiere" or "Sibling Support Project." (By selecting "Stay at Home Premiere," 50% of your contribution will go to ANCOR, another worthy cause.) You can also send a contribution to The Arc's Sibling Support Project, 1010 Wayne Avenue, Suite 650, Silver Spring, MD 20910.

A Kiss That Binds: Understanding The Interaction Of Fragile X Mental Retardation Protein And Kissing Complex RNAs

Fragile X syndrome is the most common inherited form of mental retardation, affecting approximately 1 in 3600 males and 1 in 4000-6000 females. Fragile X syndrome results from loss of expression of the Fragile X mental retardation protein (FMRP), the product of the FMR1 gene. Now, Drs. Robert and Jennifer Darnell and colleagues, from The Rockefeller University, report the uncovering of a new interaction between FMRP and messenger RNAs (mRNAs) containing a tertiary RNA structure termed a "kissing complex".

PARENTS AND TEENS FINALLY AGREE ON SOMETHING: ADHD TREATMENT WORKS

Families Credit Therapy with Better Grades, Higher Self-Esteem, Improved Relationships

Alexandria, VA (March 8, 2005) — Families with teenagers diagnosed with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) strongly believe that treating the condition can lead to significant improvements in school and at home, according to a new nationwide survey.

Roughly two-thirds of these parents (66%) and teenagers (61%) report their teen/they currently receive treatment for ADHD. Both groups credit their treatment – in the form of medication, counseling and/or behavior therapy, and school services – with contributing to better grades in school, higher self-esteem, improved social relationships and enhanced participation in extracurricular activities.

Time magazine: The Bully Blight

Scientists find that getting picked on is more harmful than anyone knew

By MICHAEL D. LEMONICK, Monday, Apr. 11, 2005

Like most of her classmates at Washington High School in Milwaukee, Wis., La Shanda Trimble, 18, is attentive to fashion trends; it's the particular trend she chooses that sets her apart. She's a Goth, wearing black lipstick and nail polish, listening to bands like Linkin Park and Rob Zombie rather than rapper Nelly or R&B star Ciara. She likes to wear her hair in pigtails instead of the more popularly accepted braids. The other kids don't approve. "They think I should act like them," says the 11th-grader. "They like me to listen to rap and pop and wear, like, brand-new shoes."

Input Sought from healthcare providers and client advocates at PASSPORT Summits, April 26, Helena

As the PASSPORT to Health program enters its twelfth year of successfully managing the delivery of health care to Montana's Medicaid clients, the Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services (DPHHS) is planning summits to determine if the current operation of the PASSPORT to Health program is the most effective way to meet its objectives.

The Department stresses that attendees should look at the program in a truly comprehensive way; therefore, no idea is off the table for consideration. "Change to the PASSPORT program, whether slight or radical, may be in order," said Mary Angela Collins, Managed Care Bureau Chief. "These summits will provide a forum for providers to identify parts of the program they feel are ineffective or outdated. All we ask is that ideas fit within our goals for managed care."

PASSPORT to Health's objectives include fostering a medical home between providers and clients, which promotes appropriate care and reduces costs, as well as assuring adequate access to primary care.

One-day facilitated summits are planned for locations across the state:

- o Helena on April 26,
- o Havre on May 10,
- o Billings on May 18,
- o Kalispell on June 8, and
- o Missoula on June 15.

A cross-section of PASSPORT stakeholders are invited, including: PASSPORT providers, specialists, and other non-PCPs, representatives from billing companies, hospitals, FQHCs, RHCs, the tribal health community, and client advocates.

Implemented in 1993, the PASSPORT program has been successful in saving over $20,000,000 annually. These savings allow the program to provide services to people who may not have otherwise received them, and help maintain provider reimbursement rates.

In addition to meeting its financial objectives, the PASSPORT program has been well received by 80% of its PCPs and clients.

If you have ideas to offer, and would like to participate in one of the summits, contact PASSPORT Program Officer Niki Scoffield at (406) 444-4148 or niscoffield@mt.gov. For a copy of the agenda and more details, visit Montana Medicaid's website at www.mtmedicaid.org.

Disability Law Resource Project (DLRP) Webcasts April 27, May 18

(From DLRP)

Saving Lives—Including People with Disabilities in Emergency Planning: April 27, 1:00-2:30pm MST

PRESENTER:

Patricia Pound, Member, National Council on Disability, will present this Web cast on Wednesday, April 27, 2005 from 3:00-4:30pm Eastern; 2:00 Central; 1:00 Mountain; 12:00 Pacific; 11:00 Alaska; 9:00 Hawaii.

Patricia Pound was confirmed in 2002 as one of President Bush's nominees to the National Council on Disability, an independent federal agency making recommendations to the President and Congress on disability policy.

SUMMARY:

In this Webcast, Patricia Pound will discuss the report presented by the National Council on Disability (NCD) entitled Saving Lives: Including People with Disabilities in Emergency Planning.

Under its congressional mandate, NCD is charged with the responsibility to gather information on the development and implementation of federal laws, policies, programs, and initiatives that affect people with disabilities. In 2003, because of the Administration's initiatives in homeland security, NCD committed to evaluate the development of the Federal Government's work in that area as well as in the areas of emergency preparation and disaster relief as they relate to and affect Americans with disabilities.

This report provides an overview of steps the Federal Government should take to build a solid and resilient infrastructure that will enable the government to include the diverse populations of people with disabilities in emergency preparedness, disaster relief, and homeland security programs. This infrastructure would incorporate access to technology, physical plants, programs, and communications. It also would include procurement and emergency programs and services. Please submit questions for the presenter ahead of time to webcast@ilru.org.

IDEA 2004: May 18, 1:00-2:30pm MST.

PRESENTER:

Troy R. Justesen, Acting Deputy Assistant Secretary for the Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services (OSERS) in the U.S. Department of Education will present this Web cast on Wednesday, May 18, 2005, from 3:00-4:30pm Eastern; 2:00 Central; 1:00 Mountain; 12:00 Pacific; 11:00 Alaska; 9:00 Hawaii.

As the Acting Deputy Assistant Secretary for the Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services (OSERS) in the U.S. Department of Education (DOE), Troy Justesen serves as the principal adviser to the Assistant Secretary of OSERS on all departmental matters related to special education and rehabilitative services. Please submit questions for the presenter ahead of time to webcast@ilru.org.

SUMMARY:

IDEA 2004 becomes effective July 1, 2005. In this webcast, Dr. Justesen will provide an update on the development of the implementing regulations for IDEA 2004. He will outline the next steps in the process as well as opportunities for the public to provide comment. Additionally, he will address some key issues raised during the comment period to help us understand some key changes introduced in this latest version of IDEA as well as what those changes may mean for students, parents, and schools.

National Leadership Summit on Improving Results: Policy and Practice Implications for Secondary and Postsecondary Education and Employment for Youth with Disabilities, June 14-15, Washington, DC

(From Monday Morning in Washington, D.C.)

In response to the need to improve high school experiences and post school outcomes for youth with disabilities, National Center on Secondary Education and Transition (NCSET) hosted its first National Leadership Summit on Improving Results for Youth in September 2003. More than 250 participants attended, including state agency leaders; policymakers; professionals representing general education, special education, career and technical education, workforce development, vocational rehabilitation, and other agencies; parents; and youth with disabilities.

In order to continue the national conversation which occurred at the 2003 Summit, NCSET in partnership with federal agencies and national organizations will co-host a second National Leadership Summit on Improving Results for Youth in Washington, DC in June 14-15, 2005.

The goal of this event is to convene state-level teams of policymakers to examine the progress made in the implementation of the strategic action plans developed at the 2003 Summit, and to further build state/territory capacity to improve high school experiences that lead to successful post school outcomes for all youth.

Access <http://www.ncset.org/summit05/> for more information and registration.

"Making Connections, Strengthening Communities" 14th Annual Community Technology Conference June 17-19, Cleveland, OH

The Community Technology Center Network's major event is "the largest national gathering of community technology organizations, programs, and experts." The goal for the 2005 conference is to "to chart the progression of the community technology movement from a small grassroots effort, focused on technology access, to a growing national and international field of practice harnessing technology to meet human and social needs." According to CTCNet, the Annual Conference "is a gathering of our member organizations, leaders in the field, and others in related fields interested in creating equitable participation in information technology. CTCNet members receive a discounted registration rate and repeatedly cite this conference as one of the most important services CTCNet offers."
